The future of medicine is in your hands.

FACT:
Almost 70 percent of NYU School of Medicine’s Class of 2015 — 114 out of 163 — graduated with debt.

FACT:
Nearly half of the student body amassed debt of $100,000 or more.

FACT:
In recent years, endowed scholarships have met about 14 percent of student need.

FACT:
With room, board, and lab fees, cost to students is approximately $81,000 a year.

FACT:
As of July 2009, graduates are no longer able to defer student loans during residency.

FACT:
62 percent of students admitted in 2011 matriculated elsewhere, citing lack of financial aid as a primary reason.

FACT:
In recent years, student loan borrowing has hovered near $18 million.

FACT:
Your partnership will enable students to succeed.

Meet the Education and Alumni Giving team:

ANTHONY J. GRIECO, MD, MACP, ’63, ’60 ARTS
Associate Dean of Alumni Relations and Academic Affairs

ERICA J. CAMPBELL
Director of Development Education and Alumni Giving Phone: 212.404.3594 e-mail: erica.campbell@nyumc.org

Office of Development | One Park Avenue | 17th Floor | New York, NY 10016

NYU Langone Medical Center is composed of NYU Hospitals Center and NYU School of Medicine.
ENDOWED SCHOLARSHIPS AT NYU SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

Today’s brilliant minds will save lives tomorrow.

Increased support for endowed scholarships at NYU School of Medicine will allow us to:

- Attract and retain the most talented students—regardless of economic status.
- Help more students in a destabilized economy.
- Give students the opportunity to focus on becoming the best doctors they can be.
- Empower students to choose careers based on medical passion, not financial debt.

Endowed scholarships are vital sources of long-term funding. Donors can either endow funds in their own names or the names of their loved ones, pool donations to establish collective gifts, or donate any amount to an existing fund. Scholarship endowments begin at $100,000, and funds may be donated over a period of up to five years or as part of an estate plan. If you have named NYU School of Medicine as a beneficiary of your estate, please let us know so that we may express our gratitude.

Endow a scholarship today and support our School’s greatest resource—a diverse student body.

To learn more, call Erica Campbell at 212.404.3594 in Education and Alumni Giving, or visit www.med.nyu.edu/education.